I use the facility place of worship daily, great for my mental health, wellbeing. It is a community hub, provides great services, programmes and events for men, women, youth and children on our faith and also provides health activities like walks, day trips, weekend getaways organised by the trust working with parents and youth to help them become positive role models and assets for the future. Topics on drugs, crime and giving the youngster's a platform to use the facilities in a pro active manner, keeping them off the streets and trouble. Great lectures and advice given by the wonderful staff, imams and volunteers bringing the whole community together.

Education classes and they do so much ie activities for all age group

Education and motivation talks on important topics.

Help charity fundraiser and working with nhs, food banks, disaster reliefs and local people struggling financially. A set-up which is more than just a place to worship. The vision they have is so progressive and the population has increased so much within healy for the Muslim community it needs bigger promises. the community centre nearby is also used as they are running out of space for the childrens madressa after school Education classes.

The plan will bring jobs/wealth in creating the development and also increase paid/unpaid voluntary work on site.

Gardens to sit and relax, coffee mornings. Breakfast club's, day out and weekend retreats for parents, childrens and imams. Working together to keep young and old engaged in activities outside worship, it is a centre which is very welcoming and a hub for the locals. The premises are used to its capacity and there is a great need to extend and develop it. It has done so much for us and i am lucky to be few minutes away from it.

The trust works closely with people of faith & no faith and schools, including local residents ie where they provided help and support during covid era, a job well done.

They do engage with local authorities and councilors on delivering

A safe place to worship and provide additional activities which can only be a plus for the local residents of Healey and its surroundings.
