

Images of the church from various angles

View from across the valley showing the church in its position on the hillside. The building can be seen similarly to this on the approach to the village from the west – nestling picturesquely among the trees. The south-facing roof is not visible from this side.

Also from a westerly direction, but from the roadside just below the church.

View from a point opposite the east end of the church, in front of the buildings there. The south-facing roof is just visible from here, but is not prominent.

View from further up Sude Hill. The south-facing roof is visible from a stretch of Sude Hill approx 300m long, but the church is largely masked by other buildings from this viewpoint.