CYBER CRIME: E-mail scams are common. Transactions involving solicitors are being targeted by fraudsters spoofing emails and changing bank details. We will never send our bank details over email and we will never notify you of a change to our bank details by e-mail or telephone.

For payments we are to make to you, we will have obtained your written instructions regarding bank details at the start of your case. We do not accept bank details over email. Any instructions to change those details will be required in writing from you and after you have answered our security questions.

If you receive an e-mail from us that looks suspicious, contains bank details, notifies you of a change of bank details or spoofed, please contact your case handler immediately by telephone. Please refer to your client care letter for the contact details of your case handler.
