1 This might look like a reasonable reasonable on paper but if you look at the site in person it is obvious it will be hugely detrimental to the area. 1. The roads are not capable of handling heavy traffic. There is a footpath to the village for many elderly residents - this will be unusable if there is an open cast coal mine there. I do not believe it is safe for large vehicles to be using these roads. 2. The village is already struggling to cope with extra residential developments. There is inadequate parking in the village. The services are overwhelmed - doctors, chemist, schools 3. The noise and dust pollution will be unbearable in this quiet residential area. There are many elderly residents living nearby, many, such as my husband , with breathing difficulties - an open cast coal mine and heavy traffic will be detrimental to health 4. Environmental impact. How can it be justified to mine for coal and build houses on this land, killing all the wildlife in the area? 5. Can we really be sure what effect this work will have on the land, for example destabilising or flooding the surroundings? I strongly object to the plans on the above grounds
