I object. The extraction of the coal will cause coal dust to be spread across residential areas and nearby schools. This is a toxic substance. In addition the noise will be considerable as will the movement of heavy goods vehicles on roads that have both width issues, high accident rates and with the passing of the Bromley farm quarry very recently will already have large scale lorry movements. In addition the down stream environmental impact does not appear to have been considered in respect of burning such a large amount of coal.
