We find it hard to believe that this area of land is still being considered for development for housing. The extraction of tonnes of coal from this land, the potential health and environmental risks, and the road safety concerns alone should outweigh any advantage gained. The access site proposed from Cumberworth Lane, being local to the area we find this is already a busy road and crossing it can be dangerous, many drivers not adhering to the speed limits. It is often used by parents taking children to school. The influx of more road users and heavy lorries carrying coal and building materials up and down this village would add significant safety concerns. We no longer have coal mining in the UK. With environmental issues such as air and noise pollution affecting health and evidence of climate change. It is worrying to think what could happen to subject a small rural village as Denby Dale (and surrounding areas) and its people to any of this.
