I saw this application in the newspaper: https://www.examinerlive.co.uk/news/west-yorkshire-news/plans-revamp-kirklees-service-station-31072204 It quotes "The applicant - Acumen - says it has interest from a "well-known" coffee shop operator, national pizza company and another hot food operator. However, it is unsure whether previously secured planning permission allows for these uses, with planning policy having changed since." I do not feel any of those are needed above and beyond what is already in this area. I agree with the comments from another objector "In a one mile stretch from Scouthill to the Swan Service station there are 21 takeaways. Huddersfield Road is swamped by litter from these takeaways as well as congestion with traffic as cars pull in and out of the side of the road. If these units are turned into takeaways, we will get more litter, more traffic and more disruption." The reason for my objection is the extra litter and traffic that these establishments will attract.
