While some development on this site may be appropriate, the current proposal raises serious concerns. There is no submitted highways assessment or car park tracking, making it impossible to understand the impact on local traffic or whether the proposed parking layout is even workable. Several of the spaces shown appear to be unusable in practice, with turning and access likely to be extremely difficult. In addition, the architectural style is overly modern and fails to reflect the traditional character of the surrounding conservation area. Both the design and the lack of proper infrastructure analysis suggest this application has not been fully thought through.
