While housing stock is urgently needed in all areas, the need is for affordable housing rather than large four bedroomed detached dwellings eating into agricultural areas between hamlets. The villages of Stocksmoor and Thurstonland still retain much of their character as small communities surrounded by working farmland with even smaller hamlets dotted between and around them, Blakehouse, Whitstones and others. To allow a development directly between village and hamlet is to change the nature of these places and open up the surrounding fields for further development. The proposed house is not needed there being plenty of similar housing in the two nearest villages. Neither of the villages has the infrastructure to support additional housing without increasing facilities and public transport. I believe this land to be green belt land and there is no clear need to change this. In conclusion I strongly object to this development and ask that it be rejected.
