There are genuine objections to this proposal well voiced by 28 people at a Holme Valley planning meeting at Honley library 30th June. A report reflecting these views has been submitted to the local authority.
TRAFFIC
This is a narrow lane where these houses will be built which has already been converted into a dangerous car park especially at school finishing time - do a traffic survey NOT during school holidays.
FLOODING
The houses around 42 and 44 Gynn Lane already experience 12 feet rises in water level during heavy rainfall the water being toxic and orange in colour.
MINING
There are reports produced which indicate this area is 'high risk' for building. A speaker will give details at the next meeting of concerned residents on 16th July where well over 50 very concerned local residents are expected to attend.
NATURE
Many trees have TPOs on them which also has hosted a rookery for forty years. The area is inhabited by badgers and roe deer.
