I am objecting to the proposed opening of a Domino's Pizza branch in our village. It is a village not a town centre and we should focus on own businesses rather than chain takeaways/fast food stores/businesses. There's also multiple other takeaways in the local area that this would affect. There's even one on the same street. The introduction of a large corporate food outlet would likely undermine these small businesses that rely on community support. Dominos is also not highly rated. It's know for bad quality and over priced food, incorrect orders and slow delivery. I and I'm sure plenty of other people in the village and surrounding villages would prefer a non chain business to fill the empty stores in our area. Maybe a stone baked pizza restaurant/takeaway, a gift store, a Refill store, an indoor play area, a proper bakery etc would be better for that space.
