A concrete plant in a residential area surrounded by woodland is an absolutely terrible idea - the dust and disruption from such an industry will destroy local habitats and harm the creatures and birds. This is a very quiet area and the noise from the site not to mention the busy traffic of the road will be very disruptive to the local area. Also, some of the houses along Somerset Rd and Almondbury Bank are beautiful old buildings, this tall factory would honestly be an ugly eyesore and not in keeping with surroundings. I would like to think that there are better places to consider building a concrete plant. Noise, disturbance and odour are concerns but also mainly on the local wildlife and green woodland. Please reconsider!!!
