I live just up the hill from this small industrial unit and every morning around 7am I am rudely awoken by the slamming of machinery and constant beeping of reversing vehicles, I've come to live with it as there's nothing else I can do but it ruins a lovely day in the garden when you've all this racket going on a couple of hundred yards away. The erection of a concrete plant here is a terrible idea, the only ones who will benefit will be the owners at the expense of the residents and the local fauna and flora. This is and has always been a busy residential area with lots of traffic, the last thing we need is the air quality decreasing further, noise levels raising to the point we can't have our windows open without incessant noise.
