I object to the application as it increases the massing and density of housing, it is a larger and more dominant design than that originally approved. The developer having been given planning permission is now seeking variations and changes on a number of plots on an individual basis that do not comply with the restrictions and conditions imposed by the original decision. The developer is following a policy of building before the variation/change has been considered by the council in the expectation that the works will be allowed to remain as it has been completed.
