I believe the changes due to be made to the market are a bad idea. I am originally from Grimsby and I would have to travel far from where I live to get to anything closely resembling Huddersfield market. I hear from people reminiscing about years ago when we had outdoor markets and that we no longer have them and what a shame it is. When I came to Huddersfield for Uni I was amazed by the variety of things sold on the market and loved the atmosphere. I come every week to the market. When I left Huddersfield for around a year I always made an effort to come to the market when I visited the area. It is always bustling, similar to how I imagine Grimsby's Market used to be that we no longer have. When I bring my parents here they say this is what it used to be like. Please don't change something that isn't broken, jeopardise the community that is still thriving and risk losing something that would be difficult to bring back.
