The proposed removal of the stalls will render the whole ethos of what this market community is all about. At present it is the busiest place in Huddersfield, with massive footfall. This market is unique in Huddersfield, and it's charm and appeal, is that it is affordable for the many independent stall holders who have established themselves within this market over decades. It draws visitors from far and wide. It is an experience to visit, and myself and husband have benefited from very affordable goods purchased. We do not want a modern fixed stall retail outlet, that could possibly be homogenised by the usual high street brands. Surely that option can be left to places like Kingsgate. To fundamentally change the dynamics of this much loved market, would be to ruin something that certainly does not need fixing. I would welcome new toilets and better refuse facilities. Please do not ruin this gem in the crown of Huddersfield's heritage. It really is worth preserving.
