

Following our discussion last Friday regarding the retaining wall, you mentioned that rendering the wall would be an improvement and that you're open to a rendered finish in the same off white colour used on some of the houses in the development.

Please see below the intended appearance of the retaining wall. The proposal is to render the concrete panels in off white and paint the I columns in the same grey as the window frames. Also note that our retaining walls will be lower in height than the one shown in the attached image.
