| I am not against a house being built on this site as I think it would look better than it does now however this plan would mean that this house would not follow the line of those houses either side of it. In the valley side (not the road side ) the house would be coming out to far and thus would look out of place m, too dominating and not in keeping with the properties either side. I also understand that properties either side have not been allowed to be built with a balcony and conservatory's in the recent past as they came out to far and had the planning knocked back |    |
