The extension is be overly large compared to the original house which has already been extended. An issue we have on sycamore close is parking. The house will be four bedroom and will only have two spaces with no turning area. I have quickly checked Kirklees standards and there is a minimum requirement of three off road spaces for a house with four bedroom. Surely the architect should know this? I'm not sure how three spaces would be achievable given the tight space at the front.
