As a teenage girl who has lived in Shepley my whole life, I would like to object against the planning permission to build a new estate off the road of Eastfield. My reason for this objection are extremely justified as I know the negatives outweigh the positives significantly. The congestion of traffic and how this leads to many other problems in itself together with the detrimental impacts of the children and younger generations living and growing up in Shepley. The major congestion issue on the small, local roads are already currently overwhelmed regarding the number of vehicles travelling on these roads. Building more dwellings on these small roads will create a dangerous amount of traffic and safety issues for the general public, living and visiting the area. This will ultimately result in an unwelcoming environment, therefore people may stop supporting the village and local businesses in the area. Secondly, I would like to bring to your attention is the negative impact children will have involving the construction of a new estate. At the moment, it is green belt land. I have personally grown up playing on and around these quiet roads and fields, which will supposedly be intended to handle heavy flow of traffic, which is not only a struggle in itself, but for the children living around the estate. This can affect their social, mental and physical health, as not being able to play outdoor with their friends will most definitely have a negative impact on their overall wellbeing and the whole of the residents of Shepley. Surely you remember when you were outside, having fun and making memories. Why wouldn't you want that for someone else?
