| I would like to object to the plans for 120 houses on Eastfield. One only has to take the slightest interest in Shepley village life, whether it be through the Shepley community Facebook page, the Shepley Village magazine, or discussions with residents, to notice that the biggest problem faced in the village, above even the age-old issue of dog-fouling, is traffic. Shepley was not built to handle so many cars, which explains the recent violent stand-offs between vehicles outside the shops and services on Station Road, the many tragic accidents up Lane Head Road, and the worrying reversing on pavements outside Shepley First School on Firth Street. Not to mention parking! How could adding 120 houses, so roughly 240 more cars, plus a plethora of delivery vehicles in this age of home-deliveries, possibly seem like a good idea for a village like Shepley? | |
