As part of the planning application I don't see plans to put a 8ft 6in metal container on the land which has currently been in position since Nov which with supporting stones is over 9ft high at the front of the property above the regulatory 8ft requirement . The plans state the build and various changes to 3 Croft drive with be in keeping of the estate . Having a large blue shipping container which is visible from all ends of the estate is not in keeping and based on the current deeds of the estate you need planning permission even for a temporary building like this . Also changes to the front garden boundary to 3 Croft Drive - car park (what has been looked at based on current deeds as no one on the current estate has made their from garden a carpark as all have drives . Why can't the current drive been used as a joint carpark - it's big enough and not part of the land needed for the new property .
