My concerns are regarding the disruption/elimination (forcing closure) of the very popular raised cafe and meeting area in the current Open Market: in the new, temporary open structure in Brook St., will there be a suitable temporary replacement for these cafes? At the moment there are 2 outlets, one providing a general breakfast/lunch/snack menu, and another providing Thai food. Both cafes share a raised platform for customers, with multiple tables. There need to be equivalent toilet facilities to those existing at present. Will the temporary Market provide an equal or greater number of stalls for existing/prospective traders? Some traders have said they have been told that if they currently need, for example, two stalls (or more, in the case of the flower/plant stalls) to display their stock, they have been informed that they will be limited to one stall each in the new, temporary structure. Would the rental charges to traders remain the same as the current prices? There hasn't been sufficient consultation with marker traders and customers to ensure an active co-planning role for the initiative, to achieve the best outcome for all concerned.
