Why do you consider that a Lawful Development Certificate should be granted for this proposal?

As the care staff will work in shift patterns and therefore not reside full-time at the property it is accepted that a technical change of use from use class C3(a) to C2 will occur, however, given the nature of the activities associated with the use are those of the day to day functionality of a conventional residential dwelling/use, with the proposed use not leading to a greater difference in activity and disturbance to that which may be anticipated with any other conventional domestic household, it is not considered that it will amount to a material change. In support of this, the judge in the case of North Devon District Council v First Secretary of State [2003] concluded that children could not on their own be considered to constitute a fully functioning household without a resident carer living in the property full-time. As a consequence, it was decided that a change of use from C3 to C2 had occurred at the property. However, and importantly, it was also decided that whilst a change of use had occurred, it was not deemed to be a material change of use and that as such, planning permission was not required.
