This is the last field that should be considered for development, the woods are a receptor of the highest sensitivity. The ecology surveys don't seem to consider the true extent of the effects any development may have on the Ancient Woodland. Is this because the red line boundary has been moved away from the actual boundary? The consultation leaflet included this area so why is it now to remain agricultural? The trees and wildlife would be damaged beyond recognition, even the addition of a small number of pet cats would cause devastation amongst the bird and amphibian populations. Additional trampling will affect the hairy wood ant population which Kirklees recognise as a keystone species and that this rare population is in need of protection. The village is too small for a proposed development of 123 dwellings, the infrastructure could not accommodate it and this would harm the character of the area as it is completely disproportionate to the village as it currently exists.
