I am 10 years old and I live next to the field that Vivly want to destroy with houses. It has made me incredibly sad. I learnt about biodiversity at school and I know that if houses are built on our field then the animals will have nowhere to breed and shelter and will move on, away from Upper Cumberworth. This would make me really sad. It means that we could be the last generation, after loads and loads of generations before us, that will be able to see deer in this field with their babies or goldcrest birds perching on our fence that borders the field and bats in our trees that hunt in the fields where the houses might be built. We love the tree in the middle of the field and my Dad said that it is protected but Vivly plan to chop it down. This also makes me sad. I thought greenbelt land should be protected by our local council? I stand on the main road on the pavement near the post office for the bus to middle school in a morning. It's a fast road and there have been loads of roadworks this year because the water pipes on the road keep bursting. This means our bus stop gets moved and we have to cross more roads and the traffic is mega busy. It's already hard to cross the road safely in a morning to the bus stop. I think if there are more houses there will be more cars on Barnsley Road and more kids standing on the pavement at the bus stop. I don't think this will be safe for us. My mum said then we would have to drive to school, but this will add to the problem of more cars on the road and more pollution so I've told her I still want to get the bus.
