1) Field Head is a very narrow road and the proposed driveways exit onto a blind bend. This is dangerous. At the moment the only refuge for pedestrians is a small pavement which will be difficult to negotiate with driveways in place. The existing drop kerb and site entrance is on Station Road rather than Field Head and this is a far more established and safe entry to the plot. 2) All other buildings along Station Road front onto the main road - it would be out of character to have the side of the house facing Station Road. 3) The height and direction of the proposed development would mean that they overlook neighbouring private gardens and windows and potentially restrict light. There is existing foliage to mitigate to some extent but this does not stop overlooking first floor windows and it cannot be guaranteed that the trees will always be there.
