These views are more about using this development to promote Marsden and the investment in the area. It would be great to incorporate this into initiatives to promote Marsden that would attract outside visitors and for the betterment of residents. For example, having a multitude of sustainable plants and small trees that would support a wider 'Marsden in Bloom' initiative as well as other initiatives to celebrate the area and its impressive history. With that, renaming and celebrating key sections of the development with historical names. All of these - and others - would connect and embed the development such that it doesn't stick out like a sore thumb or dominate the area but would rather enhance and integrate it into the community and wider areas of interest.
