Generally supportive. A couple of points to make though: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- I'm not aware of black cladding being used elsewhere in Marsden - it could be quite stark, and not really in keeping with the local area.</li><li>- The two elevated tunnels that currently link the buildings are a real historic feature it would be good to retain.</li><li>- Addition of a bridge over the River Colne would be good sooner rather than later, to help unify the village and pedestrian access.</li><li>- What constraints can be put on planning permissions to ensure that development continues making progress rather than just picking off the easy bits?</li></ul>
