In the year since Bottle and Co opened, I have visited there most weeks and have walked past every day. There has there been no evidence of noise or nuisance on the street at any time of the day or evening, and the time limits on using the garden area were consistently enforced during the summer months. The premises attract a range of clientele, with people of different ages and backgrounds meeting to socialise or play games. This facility meets the definition of a 'third space', with all the demonstrable benefits for community cohesion which that entails, and is a valuable addition to the village. I have repeatedly used it in conversation with people from elsewhere as an example of Denby Dale's inclusive and welcoming character, and I strongly support its continuance.
