There is simply no clear need for another petrol station in this area. Within a radius of approximately four miles, there are already five existing petrol stations serving local residents. In fact, one petrol station is located just one mile away from my home. This level of provision is more than sufficient, and adding another site would result in unnecessary duplication rather than meeting any genuine demand. I am concerned about the impact on the character of the village. A petrol station is not in keeping with a residential or rural setting and would change the nature of the area, making it feel more commercialised and less suitable for residents. There is no demonstrable need for another petrol station given the existing nearby facilities, and the negative impacts on traffic, safety, and the character of the village outweigh any potential benefit. For these reasons, I strongly object to this proposal.
