The planning application asks whether there would be any diversion or extinguishment of an existing right of way. The response states "No". This is incorrect - the Land Registry title plans stipulate that there is a public footpath through the site and also that the site is designated as "Public Open Space". Children regularly play on this site and it keeps them off the roads. Further, the application states that there is no increase of flood risk associated with it. Again this is incorrect. Flooding regularly occurs to number 18 Broadacres and number 7 Honey Head Lane. As such, if this site is to be built upon, it would result in a loss of natural drainage and the potential for flood damage to those properties would be increased. The land is recreational land and has been used as such for circa 24 years. Children of both Broadacres and Honey Head Lane use the land as a cut through and play on it all year round. The impact of a dwelling on this public open space would be devastating for all nearby residents as well as being unsightly, obstructing views over the fields and obliterating public open space which both wildlife and children enjoy.
