At present this green belt land is used agriculturally and is visible from every conceivable direction, to imagine any development of this site to not have a negative impact on the local area is fallacy! In planning policy, development of green belt may be allowed in "very special circumstances" where the positives out weigh the negatives, this will never be the case at this location, permanent damage will be done to the wild life, hares, deer, to name a few, it will surely affect local water courses and woodlands, there is no public transport to talk of in Birds Edge therefore removing the presumption that some or all of this is social housing, it clearly cannot be, it must therefore be for profit of the developer and not for the advancement or improvement of the local area and its people. to finish, once gone, this will never be open and green land ever again.
