I don't have a problem with this application as such. It is well on the way to completion already and doesn't cause me any real problem. However I have spoken to Hassan the owner who informs me that at a later date he may , subject to funds, create a balcony on top of the extension. If this had been included in the application I would have objected on the ground that the balcony would have direct line of sight into the sitting out area of my garden. I am left with the impression that the intention may be to do the veranda at a later date under permitted development but in my opinion this should be part of the original application as the work already undertaken and proposed is part of one large renovation project.
