|   | What do I need to do? | It’s important you start thinking about...
• What is important to you?
• What makes you happy?
• What you would like to do when you become an adult?
• Do you have any goals in life?

You should start talking to family and friends, its your life, have your say! |
My future

From 14 years of age - school year 9 you will be invited to some planning meetings to talk about:
- what you want to do when you leave school; and
- what support you might need.

Lots of people will say what they think you might need. These people might be:
- you
- your parent or carer
- someone from the local council
- a teacher
- a doctor
- someone like a speech and language therapist or an educational psychologist.
- your careers adviser

But the important thing is what you think.

Choices - What do you want?

If you are under 16 years old, your mum, dad or main carer will make decisions about your support.

You will still be asked what you think about your support. It’s important you think about what is important to you.

Decisions? It’s your choice

If you are 16 years old or older, you will be the main person making decisions. Support is available if you need it, this is called advocacy. Advocacy helps you make sure your views are heard. Find out more information about advocacy at www.kirklees.gov.uk/advocacy

Things to think about?

Here are some things you might want to think about:
- Are there any decisions you would like to make on your own?
- What decisions do you feel comfortable making about your support?
- What decisions don’t you feel comfortable making about your support?
- Would you need help to make a decision? If so, what help would you need?

You might need different sorts of support at different times. You may have an education, health and social care plan which records the help you need.</td>

Your local council and health can offer help and support to you depending on your needs. There are services for children (under 18) and services for adults (over 18).

You may need help with things like taking care of yourself, getting around on your own, managing your health needs, living on your own. Social workers can work with you to work out what your care and support needs are and whether you can receive money for support from the council.

Becoming an adult means that you will move from children’s to adults’ services. People who support you and know you will be in your planning meetings.

This move will happen over a period of time. In law you become an adult at 18, but changes will start taking place from 16.
Will I get help?

Social workers may also attend your planning meetings to help you move from children’s social care to adults’ social care.

They will work with you to assess your care and support needs and if you meet criteria set by the Care Act 2014 you will be offered a personal budget. You can choose how you take this:

- Direct payment – a budget paid to you in cash on a pre-paid card. A pre-paid card is like a bank card and you can spend up to the limit to meet your assessed needs. You could employ a personal assistant to help you.

- Virtual budget – this is where you ask the council to manage your budget for you and they work with you to set up your support. The council will buy support services from contracted providers including home care, day services and care homes.

- Mixed budget – this is where you want to take some of your personal budget as a direct payment and the rest as a virtual budget.
